ELK ROLLING IN THE WATER- SEPTEMBER

Dzinisi gúja tlat'a (Good day y'all),

I just have to say, sometimes, you gotta prioritize yourself. I understand there is limitations and people are dealt difficult cards in this life.

But you always have a choice. There's reward in struggle and sacrifice. Don't worry about those around you, especially the ones who don't want the best for you. Focus on what actually makes you happy.

As always, don't make ai flyers, hire your local graphic designer, and drink more water.

Siyisgaas (Thank you) ★

TSUUT'INA NATION

XÀKÍJÍ UWA XÀKÚJÀÀ YĪNÁ (HEAD CHIEF & MINOR CHIEFS)

Message from Xàkújàà Corrine Eagletail

Dzínīsī gújā Tsuut'ina Citizens,

As we begin September, I want to acknowledge the many families, students, staff, volunteers, workers, and citizens who continue to carry responsibilities across our Nation each day. This time of year can be busy for many households, with school beginning again, summer activities winding down, and Nation work continuing in many areas.

As summer winds down and we look ahead to autumn, which begins on September 22, I hope everyone is able to enjoy this seasonal transition in a good way. Please continue to take care of yourselves, watch over your families, travel safely, and look out for one another. These simple acts of care are part of who we are as Tsuut'ina people.

On behalf of Xàkíjī uwa Xàkújàà yīnā, I also want to recognize that citizens continue to ask important questions about the work taking place across the Nation. That interest matters. It shows that our people care about the direction of Tsuut'ina Nation and the future we are building together.

Best Wishes to Students Returning to School

To all students returning to school, college, university, training, or trades programs, congratulations on beginning another year of learning. Each step you take in your education is something to be proud of.

Our students carry gifts, ideas, and responsibilities that will help shape the future of Tsuut'ina Nation. Whether you are starting school for the first time, entering a new grade, graduating soon, or continuing post-secondary studies, we encourage you to keep going, ask for help when needed, and remember that your Nation is proud of you.

We also acknowledge the parents, grandparents, guardians, teachers, education staff, bus drivers, coaches, mentors, and family members who support our students every day. Your encouragement helps our young people feel prepared, confident, and supported as they move forward.

Appreciation for Community Participation and Volunteerism

Much of the strength of Tsuut'ina Nation comes from citizens who continue to show up for one another. Throughout the year, people volunteer, organize, cook, clean, coach, contribute, attend meetings, help with events, support Elders, encourage youth, and share knowledge in quiet and meaningful ways.

Those contributions may not always be seen by everyone, but they are felt. They help keep our community connected and remind us that Nation-building is not only done through offices, meetings, or projects. It is also done through service, kindness, and responsibility to one another.

Siyísgáàs to all citizens, volunteers, staff, Elders, youth, families, and community members who continue to give their time and energy to support Tsuut'ina Nation.

Legislative Assembly Update

In August, Xàkújághá yíná came together for the Legislative Assembly to continue important discussions about Nation laws, governance priorities, and the work needed to support Tsuut'ina Nation into the future.

This work is not always visible to citizens, but it is important work. The decisions, discussions, and planning that take place through the legislative process help strengthen governance, clarify responsibilities, and support the frameworks that guide our Nation.

Nation-building requires us to think beyond today and consider the needs of future generations. The Legislative Assembly is one way leadership continues that work, helping ensure Tsuut'ina Nation remains strong, accountable, and prepared for the opportunities and challenges ahead.

Progress Across the Nation

Across the Nation, work continues in many areas, including housing, infrastructure, construction, planning, governance, community services, and economic development. These projects and initiatives are all connected to the broader work of strengthening Tsuut'ina Nation for current and future generations.

We also recognize that growth and development can be a slow process. Many projects require planning, technical review, funding, coordination, approvals, and careful decision-making before citizens can see the results on the ground.

We appreciate everyone's patience and understanding as this work continues. Progress does not always happen as quickly as people would like, but each step forward matters. Leadership remains committed to moving priorities ahead in a responsible way and to continuing the work needed to support our people, lands, services, and future opportunities.

Coming Together This Autumn: Feed the People Day

September 22 marks the first day of autumn — a season of change, reflection, and coming together. To welcome this new season, Xàkújághá yíná will host Feed the People Day, inviting citizens, families, staff, and community members to gather and share a meal.

This special day is about more than food. It is an opportunity to reconnect, visit with one another, share stories, strengthen cultural connection, and celebrate the relationships that bring us together as one Nation. Through outreach, hospitality, and time spent together, Feed the People Day will help create space for connection, unity, and community spirit. Watch for more details coming soon.

Continuing Our Commitment to Future Generations

The work being done today is not only for this moment. It is for our children, grandchildren, and the generations still to come. As Tsuut'ina people, we carry responsibilities to protect our language, culture, lands, rights, and way of life. We also carry responsibility to make decisions that support opportunity, wellness, education, housing, services, and a strong future for our Nation.

Xàkíjí uwa Xàkújàà yíná remains committed to this work. We know there is still much to do, and we thank citizens for their continued involvement, patience, questions, support, and care for Tsuut'ina Nation.

Siyísgáàs,

Xàkújàà Corrine Eagletail

A reliable, safe source of energy.

These upgrades are part of our commitment to ensuring Tsuut'ina Nation homes and businesses have the power they need, when they need it, today and in the future.

This work could be delayed or rescheduled due to extreme weather conditions or an emergency situation. Every effort will be made to let you know if there's been a schedule change.*

ENMAX Power crews may require access to your electrical meter located on your property to confirm accurate cable labelling.

How to prepare for a power outage.

Medical
Check that back up batteries and other systems can provide power for the outage duration, as well as an additional few hours in case the outage is extended.

Food
Well sealed refrigerators and freezers will keep your food safe for several hours. Limit how often you open the door to keep the temperature from rising.

Electronics
Landline phones, wi-fi routers, computers (except laptops and tablets) or chargers will not operate during an outage. If necessary, make arrangements to work or study at another location.

Around the house
Make sure you know how to manually open your garage door when the opener doesn't have power. Also, notify your alarm/security company about the outage. If your system has a battery, check that it's charged.

Heat/Air conditioning
Adjust your heating or cooling by a few degrees for several hours before the outage starts. This will help your home stay comfortable while the power is off.

Other tips
Check that flashlights have batteries or are charged. Keep one light turned on before the outage, this way you'll know when the power is turned back on.

We're here to help.

If you have any questions about this outage, please reach out to our Customer Experience Operations Team:
403-514-3990 | outagesupport@enmax.com | enmax.com/outages

For your safety, as well as the safety of our crews or team members, please do not approach the work site with questions and concerns.

Following this planned outage, you may receive an email invitation to complete a short survey about our outage communications. InMoment conducts the survey on behalf of ENMAX, and your feedback helps improve our outage communications and customer experience. You can unsubscribe from future surveys using the link in the survey email.

THE CLASS OF SUMMER 2026

FOUR TSUUT'INA STUDENTS, ONE SUMMER AT TAZA, AND WHAT COMES NEXT

In June, we introduced four Tsuut'ina students joining the Taza team for the summer. Before they left to return to school, each of them told us what the summer gave them, what caught them off guard, and what they would say to the students who come next.

Their answers land in the same place. Opportunity close to home matters, and so does a team that wants you to do well. Keegan Runner, Charlize Littlelight, Ayvah Crowchild, and Josie Eagletail spent the summer across different areas of the business. Keep on reading to see what they are carrying forward.

MEET THE CLASS OF SUMMER 2026

KEEGAN RUNNER

Accounting Summer Student

A Room Full of Motivation

For Keegan, the summer came down to who was in the room. Working alongside motivated, supportive people pushed him to get better at the job and better outside of it, and the relationships he built are the part he will carry furthest. He also watched how the people leading this organization operate and took the lesson that long-term success gets built on trust, accountability, and treating people with respect. "Their example has shown me that integrity, respect, and professionalism are what lasting careers are built on." His advice reflects the same instinct: invest in the people around you, learn from your fellow students, collaborate wherever you can, and grow together.

CHARLIZE LITTLELIGHT

Land Development / Sustainability Summer Student

A First Impression That Stuck

Charlize points to the Nation's Open House at the Sportsplex as the moment that stayed with her, less for the event itself than for the reaction in the room. Seeing the community turn out with real excitement for Tsuut'ina youth entering the workforce made the opportunity feel bigger than a summer placement. She leaves with a positive first impression of the corporate world, a sharper sense of what professionalism looks like, and growth she counts as both personal and professional. Her advice to whoever comes next is direct: give your best effort, learn from the mistakes, and do not let challenges discourage you. "Stay committed, keep showing up, and the experience will be rewarding."

AYVAH CROWCHILD

Tsuut'ina Engagement Summer Student

Marketing, With a Deeper Purpose

Ayvah came into the role expecting to build her marketing skills. She did not expect the job to deepen her connection to her Nation at the same time. Attending community events and meeting people showed her how much pride there is within the community, and representing Tsuut'ina youth well gave the work a second purpose alongside the professional one. "It was inspiring to show my people what post-secondary students are capable of." She leaves more confident on both fronts, and with a clear sense of how much teamwork and communication shape whether a group reaches its goals. Her advice for next year: pace yourself, enjoy it, and ask every question you have. There are no wrong ones.

JOSIE EAGLETAIL

Administrative Summer Student

A Career Path Coming into Focus

Josie spent the summer learning how community development works and paying attention to how Taza carries Tsuut'ina knowledge and Indigenous artwork through both the development and the story it tells. Watching different departments contribute to one project also clarified something about her own direction: she is aiming for marketing or communications once she finishes her Indigenous Social Work Diploma. She leaves with practical ground under her too, from expense reports and Excel to DocuSign, Adobe, and the coordination that keeps an office running, plus a LinkedIn profile and a network she has started building. Her advice to next year's students is the most direct of the four. "Apply. The team at Taza wants you to succeed."

2026 NATIONAL GATHERING FOR TREATIES 1 – 11

This year's National Gathering for Treaties 1 – 11 was hosted by Treaty 2 and was held in Brandon, MB. This year's gathering was attended by Minor Chiefs Jeanne Crowchild and Kendall Jacobs. Jordan Big Plume, Executive Director of Governance & Administration and Liam Adamson, Technical Writer also attended the national event as well as myself, Everett Manyhorses, Treaty Initiatives Director.

This year's theme was "Honouring our Past, Strengthening our Sovereignty", the Treaty 2 hosts were gracious, kind and welcomed us into their territory. It was a smaller event compared to last year's National Gathering, but it still allowed us to gather, network and discuss some of the issues affecting all Treaties on a national level.

Over 600 registered participants, bringing together leadership, elders, youth, and citizens across all 11 numbered treaties. Core pillars discussed included;

- Citizenship & Nationhood: Strengthening self-determination, inherent authority, and defining sovereign nation structures.
- Lands: Protecting territories and natural resources for future generations.
- Fiscal Relations: Addressing financial governance and jurisdiction.

Next year's National Gathering for Treaties 1 -11 will be hosted by Sturgeon Lake Cree Nation in Treaty 8 territory.

Eye for an A.I.

AI restoration, based on historical photograph.
Created to honor and preserve their memory.

By now you have seen the use of artificial intelligence, knowingly or not. Not only has it invaded your auntie and uncles Facebook feed, but it's also slithered into real life spaces in ways such as posters, signage, commercials, etc. But do you ever stop and think about the long term impact that artificial intelligence has on Tsuut'ina and other indigenous communities?

There are a number of reasons on why we at the Da-Hi are so sternly against the use of artificial intelligence (A.I.). From its impacts on our environmental sovereignty to ruining peoples livelihoods, artificial intelligence is taking away more than it is giving back.

You'll notice the pictures of Bullhead that we have found on social media have two eyes open. One has amassed an impressive 83.9 thousand likes and 1900 + shares. That's a lot of misinformation being spread at the expense of the Tsuut'ina Nation.

Now I want you to imagine yourself in the future as an Elder fighting and screaming trying to convince a room full of people that Bullhead only had one eye! Feels silly now, but I guarantee you that is where we are headed.

So next time you use A.I. to "Enhance the Quality of this historic photo" or "make this poster in a Tsuut'ina style" think about who you're affecting. Think ahead.
